

Privacy Notice

Actuarial Solutions Limited (ASL) will collect personal information in order to administer the licences for its software products. The personal information collected will be a minimum of name, company and email address and may include postal address and telephone number.

Personal information data is collected under the 'legitimate interest' basis for processing in order to validate the licensing of computer software and to enable provision to licensees of information on use of the software and upgrades.

Data may be collected automatically by ASL's licenced software products for the purposes of licence verification. This may include the licence identifier, date and time of the licence check and the result of the check.

Data is retained for the use of ASL only in licence processing and communication with licence holders and is not shared with, nor passed to, any third party.

© Actuarial Solutions Ltd, 2018